South-Carolina.

By His Excellency

JAMES GLEN, Esq;

Governor in Chief, and Captain-General, in and over His Majesty's said Province.

A PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the General Assembly of this Province at present stands adjourned to the Second Tuesday in October next: AND WHEREAS there are some Affairs of great Consequence which require immediate Consideration: I have therefore thought fit, by and with the Advice of His Majesty's Honourable Council, to issue this my Proclamation, for calling the said General Assembly on Monday the Second Day of September next; and they are hereby required to meet on the said Day accordingly.

Given under my Hand, and the Great Seal of this His Majesty's said Province, in Charles-Town, the 20th Day of August, Anno Domini 1754, and in the 28th Year of His Majesty's Reign.

JAMES GLEN.

By His Excellency's Command,
John Murray, pro Dep. Sec.

GOD SAVE THE KING.

WILLIAMSBURG, July 11.

FRIDAY last Capt Whitwell, in his majesty's ship Tryton, arrived in York river, from Alexandria whither he had been to carry the New York forces; by him we learn, that the two companies from North Carolina, commanded by Lieut. Col. Granger, were arrived there, debarked and prepared to march for the Ohio,

On saturday last Capt. Mackilwean's company from North-Carolina, consisting of 40 effective men, under the command of Lieut Thomas McManus, passed by this place, in their way from Petersburg to Hampton, where they are to embark for the Ohio.

The same day came to this city 6 deserters from the French camp at Ohio, by whom we have certain intelligence, that the whole number of the French on that river, don't exceed 500 men, that they had no more than two months provisions in the fort, and that very indifferent; that there seems to be amongst them a general inclination to desert, chiefly occasioned by their bad treatment, and the stoppage of their pay; several of them having been in Canada above 2 years, without receiving any at all: From these circumstances we doubt not, but that immediately on the appearance of Col. Washington before the fort, great numbers of them will come over to us, and that the whole river will become an easy conquest.

Extract of a letter from Albany, dated the 25th ult.

"Here is a very great flood in the river; several sloops drove from their anchors, and many piles of boards, &c. swept off the shores. All the low lands are under water; and we hear from the country that many mills and dams are demolished. The damage done to the grass and corn, &c supposed to be some thousands of pounds. The rise of the waters said to be near 12 feet perpendicular, but begins to abate."

WILLIAMSBURG, July 19.

ON wednesday last arrived in town, Col. George Washington and Capt. James Mackay, who gave the following account to his honour the governor, of the late action between them and the French, at the Great Meadows in the western parts of this dominion.

The 3d of this instant July, about 9 o'clock, we received intelligence, that the French, having been reinforced with 700 recruits, had left Monongahela, and were in full march with 900 men, to attack us. Upon this, as our numbers were so unequal, (our whole force not exceeding 300) we prepared for our defence in the best manner we could, by throwing up a small intrenchment, which we had not time to perfect, before our centinel gave notice, about 11 o'clock, of their approach, by firing his piece, which he did at the enemy, and as we learnt afterward kill'd 3 of their men, on which they began to fire upon us, at about 600 yards distance, but without any effect: We immediately called all our men to their arms, and drew up in order before our trenches; but as we looked upon this distant fire of the enemy only as an artifice to intimidate, or draw our fire from us, we waited their nearer approach before we returned their salute. They then advanced in a very irregular manner to another point of woods, about 60 yards off, and from thence made a second discharge; upon which finding they had no intention of attacking us in the open field, we retired into our trenches, and still reserved our fire; as we expected from their great superiority of numbers, that they would endeavour to force our trenches; but finding they did not seem to intend this neither, the colonel gave orders to fire, which was done with great alacrity and undauntedness. We continued this unequal fight, with an enemy sheltered behind the trees, ourselves without shelter, in trenches full of water, in a settled rain, and the enemy galling us on all sides incessantly from the woods, 'till 8 o'clock at night, when the French called to parley: From the great improbability that such a vastly superior force, and possessed of such an advantage, would offer a parley first, we suspected a deceit, and therefore refused to consent that they should come among us; on which they desired us to send an officer to them, and engaged their parole for his safety; we then sent Capt. Van Braam, and Mr. Peyronée, to receive their propotals, which they did, and about midnight we agreed, that each side should retire without molestation, they back to their fort at Monongahela, and we to Wills's creek: That we should march away with all the honours of war, and with all our stores, effects and baggage. Accordingly the next morning, with our drums beating, and our colours flying, we began our march in good order, with our stores, &c. in convoy; but we were interrupted by the arrival of a reinforcement of 100 Indians among the French, who were hardley restrained from attacking us, and did us considerable damage by pilfering our baggage. We then proceeded, but soon found it necessary to leave our baggage and stores; the great scarcity of our provisions obliged us to use the utmost expedition, and having neither waggons nor horses to transport them. The enemy had deprived us of all our creatures, by killing, in the beginning of the engagement, our horse, cattle and every living thing they could, even to the very dogs. The number of the killed on our side was 30, and 70 wounded; among the former was Lieut. Mercier, of Capt. Mackay's independent company; a gentleman of true military worth, and whose bravery would not permit him to retire, tho' dangerously wounded, 'till a second shot disabled him, and a third put an end to his life, as he was carrying to the surgeon. Our men behaved with singular intrepidity, and we determined not to ask for quarter, but with our bayonets screw'd, to sell our lives as dearly as possibly we could. From the numbers of the enemy, and our situation, we could not hope for victory; and from the character of those we had to encounter, we expected no mercy, but on terms that we positively resolved not to submit to.

prisoner by them after signing the articles, and on his return told us, that he saw great numbers wounded and carried off upon litters.

We were also told by some of their Indians in the action, that the French had an officer of considerable rank killed. Some considerable blow must have received, to induce them to call for parley, knowing, as they perfectly did, the circumstances we were in.

Col. Washington, and Capt. Mackay, left Mr. Clark at Winchester on the 11th inst. and his men were not then arrived there.

Thus have a few brave men been exposed, and butchered, by the negligence of those, who, in obedience to their sovereign's command, ought to have been with them many months before; and it is evidently certain, that had the companies from New-York been as expeditious as Capt. Mackay's in South Carolina, our camp would have been free from the insults of the French, and our brave men still alive to serve their king and country.

Surely, this will remove the infatuation that seems to have prevailed too much among our neighbours, and inforce a late ingenious emblem well worthy their attention and consideration.

A SUPPLEMENT To

THE

South-Carolina Gazette.

August 22d, 1754.

[NUMB. 1053.]

The SPEECH of His Excellency HORATIO SHARPE, Esq; Governor and Commander in Chief, in and over the Province of Maryland, to both Houses of Assembly, on Wednesday the 17th of July, 1754.

Gentlemen of the upper and lower houses of assembly,

THE chearfulness with which you have attended every business, relative to the common interest of these his majesty's colonies, obviates every doubt that I might entertain of any exception being taken to my calling you together again so soon: And I flatter myself, that the present dangerous situation of affairs, will not only evince the necessity of it, at this time, but engage you, without hesitation, fully to comply with the directions contained in the earl of Holdernesse's letter.

The designs of the French must now be evident to every one: They have openly, in violation of all treaties, invaded his majesty's territories, and committed the most violent acts of hostility, by attacking and entirely defeating the Virginian troops under Col. Washington.

In this emergency, the hopes and expectations of our neighbours, whom, in duty, honour, and interest, we are engaged to support and defend, are fixed upon us for assistance; and what must the world think of our conduct, or what calamities may we not expect, if, from an unseasonable parsimony, we coldly look on, while they are cut to pieces? The boundless ambition of the common enemy, and the cruel rage of their savage allies, now upon our borders, flushed with victory, indispensably require a vigorous and immediate exertion of all our powers, to check their progress.

The Indians who are our friends, likewise claim our assistance: While their warriors are in the field with our troops, their women and children are sent to us, to be protected and supported: This is the greatest demonstration they can give of the confidence they place in us. Nor can I doubt, but that at this critical period, when the French are employing every artifice to alienate their affections from us, you will embrace so fair an opportunity of firmly attaching them to our interest, by taking care to have their wives and children kindly and hospitably treated, while they are obliged to stay with us and implore our protection.

As our settlements on the frontiers, must be the first exposed to the inroads of the enemy, I have ordered a supply of ammunition to Frederick county; and, with the advice of his lordship's council of state, issued a proclamation, for the militia to be put in the best posture of defence, that they may be prepared to act, in case of necessity: And, by the same advice, have, at the earnest request of Col. Innes, commander in chief of the North-Carolina forces, granted him a supply of arms, which, considering the present urgency of affairs, could not have been denied.

The money in the treasurer's hands, for the purchasing of arms and ammunition, being near exhausted, I must recommend to you, in the strongest manner, the raising a sufficient fund for that purpose, so necessary at this time, for the defence of the province: And must likewise observe, that the present state of the militia, requires your most serious attention.

Gentlemen, There never was a conjuncture, in which your unanimity, vigor, and dispatch, were more necessary than now: And, as I depend upon the prudence of your resolutions, I am persuaded, you will make such provisions adequate to the present emergency, as will best express your zeal, for his majesty's service, the security and welfare of this province, and the support of the common cause.

Williamsburg, August 1. We are well assured by letters from Annapolis in Maryland, that they have ... ft for granting Six Thousand Pounds, for ...edition.

CHARLES-TOWN, August 22.

The Hon. Peter Leigh, Esq; was appointed by His Excellency the Governor, (and not by Mandamus) a Member of His Majesty's Council; as was, at the same Time, John Drayton, Esq; there not being a sufficient Number of Counsellors in the Province.

We hear from Port-Royal, that there were three of the late Mr. Charles Parry's Negroes concern'd in the Murder of their Master, a Wench, and two Fellows (her Brothers). The Wench impeach'd the Fellows; and one of them, call'd Robin, was hung on a Gibbet last Thursday; the other, call'd Jemmy, was to be executed in the same Manner some Day hence.

The Schooner Aunt, of and for Winyah, from Jamaica, John Stuart Master, was spoke with by Mr. Tucker, last Thursday Evening, off this Bar, all well on board: She had been out but 16 Days
